Product Description:

Lugs terminals are an essential part of any electrical systems. Their primary purpose is to join wires or cables to the various electrical devices and equipment. They are designed to make sure that the connection between them and the terminals is secure and reliable. Lugs are small metal components that can be crimped or soldered onto the ends of wires. They come in various shapes and sizes to fit different wire gauges and terminals. Different lugs are designed to be compatible with a certain type of terminal, allowing for a safe and secure connection.

Technical Parameters:

A 90D terminal lug is an electrical connector used to connect or secure a wire. It is typically made of metal with no insulation. This type of lug is extensively utilized in multiple areas such as electrical and electronic equipment, automotive industry, home appliances, and other related fields.

Due to its absence of insulation property, this terminal lug is highly demanded in applications where a connection must be made to an exposed wire. It is valuable in automotive, in installations of home appliances, and in a variety of industries that need electrical connections.
